PEACE CHARTER DRAWN READY FOR SIGNING

President Truman Will Speak Before Members Tuesday

World Document Designed to Maintain Peace in the World Completed; Signatures Will Be Affixed Monday

PROMISES NATIONS FREE POLITICAL INSTITUTIONS

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Diplomatic News Editor

San Francisco, June 21—(AP)—A charter embracing the views of 50 United Nations was wrapped up today into a world document designed to maintain peace.

President Truman, now taking a brief holiday in Washington State, will bring the United Nations conference to a formal close with a speech on international affairs Tuesday afternoon.

Until that time the delegates of the 50 nations represented here will be busy with a variety of technical problems and speech-making sessions. But the real work of the conference, which met April 25, is accomplished.

It reached that stage last night. A committee approved an Australian-Russian compromise empowering the proposed general assembly of nations to discuss and make recommendations on any question "within the scope of the charter" written here.

Thus ended a long struggle by small nations to make the assembly a "town meeting of the world" potentially capable of exerting the pressure of public opinion on the big-power-controlled security council, even though it could exercise no control over the council directly.

Victor Andrade of Bolivia, chairman of the committee on assembly powers, attributed leadership in this struggle to foreign minister Herbert V. Evatt of Australia.

The last commission session to go over a chapter of the charter was called today to receive the report of Andrade's committee. From the stage of commission action the conference will move (Turn to Page Nine)

U. S. Destroyer Abele Is Sunk By Baka Bomb

Washington, June 21—(AP)—The double blow of a Japanese suicide plane and a jet propelled baka bomb broke in two and sank the destroyer Mannert L. Abele while she was on picket duty off Okinawa April 12.

The ship's loss was announced April 20, but the navy today told additional details of her final action. Casualties were 81 dead and 32 wounded.

Many of the casualties were trapped in compartments and went down with the ship. Others were killed when their life raft was bombed by a Japanese plane, after the ship had been abandoned.

The suicide plane, the navy report said, was a single engine "Zeke" fighter which dived through a blazing cone of anti-aircraft fire from the ship's guns, to score a hit on the starboard side, penetrating the deck to the after engine room. The plane's bomb exploded inside the ship, breaking the shaft and keel.

A minute later, the baka ("human") bomb came skimming over the water at more than 400 miles an hour to crash into the ship at the waterline on the starboard side beneath the forward stack, setting off a second terrific explosion.

OPA Penalizes Local Folk For Using Gas Driving To Florida

According to notification received from the Office of Price Administration, hearings have been held recently to determine the extent of the violation of gasoline and tire rationing laws in driving to Florida last winter.

H. G. Irwin, of the Irwin Manufacturing Company, of Garland, appeared before the board with counsel and pleaded guilty to driving to Florida on "C" coupons issued to the Irwin Manufacturing Company. His "C" ration was revoked for the duration of gasoline rationing.

J. H. Young, of the Commercial Lumber Company, Warren, was found guilty of driving to Florida, using "C" coupons issued to his lumber company. The balance of the "C" coupons he had in his possession were picked up by the OPA investigating officer in Florida and forwarded to the local board, along with a complete report.

This was the second year in succession that the local board has held a hearing for Mr. Young for the same offense. This year, he was represented by his attorney. The "C" rations for three cars in a fleet belonging to the Commercial Lumber Company were revoked and the amount of gasoline certified by ODT for use in the company trucks was reduced 80 per cent.

Other similar hearings are contemplated, according to the board.

LABOR ACT TO HALT STRIFE IN INDUSTRY

New Measure Attacked by Organized Labor Heads; Introduced As Result of Months of Study

PROPOSES NEW PLAN

By HAROLD W. WARD

Washington, June 21—(AP)—Labor opposition to the Ball-Burton-Hatch "industrial peace" bill multiplied today amid a protest it would discard a decade of labor relations experience.

The three senators, Republicans Ball (Minn.) and Burton (Ohio) and Democrat Hatch (N.M.) introduced the measure in the senate yesterday as the outgrowth of 18 months' study by a committee of 13 volunteers. The committee was headed by Ronald R. Richberg, one-time head of the NRA and author of the railway labor act, which the new legislation follows in many respects.

Sponsors said it was designed to end "legalized civil warfare" in industry in the postwar period. But organized labor was solidly critical. The AFL, CIO and United Mine Workers, piqued over not being consulted, rallied to support of the Wagner national labor relations act. Senator Wagner (D-N.Y.) also indicated he would try to fight off the amendments to his act which the new legislation follows in many respects.

Chief among these are plans to supplement the national labor relations board and the U. S. conciliation service and to perform duties now handled by the war labor board through a five-member federal labor relations board and a three-member unfair labor practices tribunal.

Preliminary examinations of the bill brought unfavorable reaction from the AFL, CIO and UMW, while the railroad brotherhoods own paper, "Labor," prepared a highly critical article for publication tomorrow.

A government official in the labor relations field, who asked that his name be withheld, said that in his opinion the measure was "cumbersome, crazy quilt and a hodge-podge." It would, he told a reporter, reject a substantial body of law built up in the past eight or nine years and "turn instead into new uncharted fields."

"It would," he declared, "sabotage a good bit of the experience we have had in the field of labor relations."

Batcheller gave the OPA credit for doing "a marvelous, oval-all job" and said he believed governmental renegotiation of war contracts has been of sound benefit to the country.

"I don't believe," he said, "that enormous profits for the war producing industries would have been good for us, as Americans. Not only would they have meant economic imbalance, but also the aftermath of recrimination, about wartime profiteering, would have disturbed the country for years."

He says he does not consider conversion a serious problem except in the auto industry. He expressed belief WPA is sincere in its aim to relax controls over business as early as possible, but said he is not certain the agency will be able to carry out its objective. He predicted an increase in steel cancellations, resulting from war production cutbacks, will hit the market about the end of July.

On preparedness he said he "emerged from the experience in Washington with a burning resentment that this country ever permitted itself to become so unprepared."

STEEL HEAD SEES WAGES MOVING UP

President of Ludlum Steel Says Cost of Living Demands That Wages Rise

POINTS TO DANGERS

Pittsburgh, June 21—(AP)—Hiland G. Batcheller, president of Allegheny Ludlum Steel Corp., predicts that both prices and wages will go up and that the little steel formula will be broken as a result.

Back from Washington, where he served as chief of operations of the War Production Board, Batcheller said at a press conference that "we can't miss having both higher prices and higher wages."

"Judging from the clamps on steel prices, I do not think prices will go up more slowly than wages," he continued. "But it seems to me that the cost of living is to trend upward for some time to come, with higher wages and higher prices as the inevitable accompaniment."

"I believe the trend will be as described and the irresistible force will prove stronger than the not-so-movable body of the little steel formula; although, for the good of all, reasonable control must be hoped for."

Batcheller gave the OPA credit for doing "a marvelous, oval-all job" and said he believed governmental renegotiation of war contracts has been of sound benefit to the country.

"I don't believe," he said, "that enormous profits for the war producing industries would have been good for us, as Americans. Not only would they have meant economic imbalance, but also the aftermath of recrimination, about wartime profiteering, would have disturbed the country for years."

He says he does not consider conversion a serious problem except in the auto industry. CHINESE THREATEN CITY OF LIUCHOW

By SPENCER MOOSA

Chinese troops converging on the former American air base of Liuchow have joined forces six miles southwest of the rail and road junction and another force from the west has reached a point 10 1/2 miles away on the Kweichow-Kwangsi railroad, the Chinese high command announced today.

The linked Chinese forces, pressing toward the suburbs of Liuchow, were engaged in bitter battles with the enemy, although some observers believed the Japanese planned to abandon Liuchow. Chinese forces have advanced to within three miles of Liuchow airport, U. S. 14th air force bomber base wrecked and abandoned to the Japanese seven months ago.

GENERAL STILWELL TO SUCCEED BUCKNER

By SPENCER DAVIS

Manila, June 21—(AP)—Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, switched from his post as chief of army ground forces to the Pacific, has been selected by Gen. Douglas MacArthur to command the U. S. 10th army now mopping up on Okinawa, it was announced today.

The veteran Japanese fighter's transfer to the Pacific ocean area theater and his appointment to the command vacated by the death in action on Okinawa of Lt. Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner, Jr., was announced from MacArthur's headquarters.

The assignment culminated a series of conferences among Stilwell, MacArthur and other field commanders in the Pacific area recently, and it is assumed he will take over the Tenth army as soon as he can get there.

VINEGAR JOE SAYS

Washington, June 21—(AP)—A war bond statement from Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, commanding general, army ground forces:

"There is no limit to the number of battle stars that can be pinned on a soldier's theater ribbon. Some of our infantrymen are wearing more than seven right now. They don't have to be asked to make still another landing or take still another hill. They know that each one helps to shorten the war. No one at home who wants to help shorten the war should have to be asked to support the seventh war loan."

PRESIDENT IS ENJOYING HIS FIRST REST

Says Principal Idea Is To Rest and Relax; Holds Conference and Discusses Plans

TO VISIT HOME TOWN

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

Olympic, Wash., June 21—(AP)—President Truman, the uncertainty over the adjournment of the San Francisco security conference removed, settled down today to the enjoyment of his first vacation from the White House.

While disappointed that he had to alter his original plans to bring the meeting to a close with a speech Saturday, the president was represented as pleased that the way has been cleared for final action next Tuesday.

He called in reporters and radio men from his first news conference outside of the White House at 10 a. m. (Pacific war time) at which time he was expected to discuss developments at San Francisco and possibly talk about his forthcoming "Big Three" meeting at Berlin.

Plans for the remainder of the president's stay here, Press Secretary Charles G. Ross reported, are indefinite.

"His principal idea is to relax and rest," Ross said.

Sentence Is Given Poles After Trial

By EDDY GILMORE

Moscow, June 21—(AP)—Twelve of 16 Poles accused of subversive activities behind Red Army lines were convicted by a Soviet court early today and given sentences of from four months to ten years in prison. Three were acquitted and the trial of another was postponed.

The heaviest sentence—10 years—was imposed upon Maj. Gen. L. Bronislaw Okulicki, commander of the underground home army after the ill-fated Warsaw uprising.

Jan Jankowski, deputy prime minister of the London Polish government-in-exile and leader of the Polish underground movement, was sentenced to eight years imprisonment.

The sentences will date from the day of arrest, March 27.

(The Moscow radio, heard in London, said no appeal from the sentences would be permitted.)

Gen. Okulicki received his sentence stoically. His only show of emotion was a tightening of the lips. As he heard the president of the military tribunal, Col. Gen. Vassily V. Ulrich, read the verdict and the sentences.

Flood lights beat down upon the defendants standing in the wooden dock as the sentences were read.

Expressions of great relief were on the faces of those acquitted—Stanislaw F. Michailowski, J. H. Stember-Dombroski and K. S. Kobylanski.

One defendant, Anton Paidak, had been ill to attend the trial and he will face the court later.

Japanese Fought Desperately Until Supplies Failed

Admiral Nimitz Announces End of Campaign For Island Today; Carries Out General

Buckner's Prediction

SMALL POCKETS ARE NOW BEING MOPPED UP

By ROBBIN COONS

Guam, June 21—(AP)—End of the Okinawa campaign was announced today by Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, 82 days after U. S. Tenth Army troops invaded the island, 325 miles south of Japan.

Admiral Nimitz' special communique announcing successful completion of the campaign in which more than 90,000 enemy troops were killed or captured, came within an hour after Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell was named to take over command of the Tenth Army in future operations.

The text of Nimitz' brief communique read: "After 82 days of fighting, the battle of Okinawa has been won. Organized resistance ceased 21 June. Enemy garrisons in two small pockets are being mopped up."

The official end of fighting fulfilled the prediction of Lt. Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner, Jr., Tenth army commander who was killed while watching Eighth Regiment Marines drive to the southern edge of the island Monday.

Japanese fought stubbornly to the last although they were running out of ammunition, food, and water. They employed machine-guns, rifles and mortars to the fullest while the Yanks relied on flamethrowing tanks, demolition charges and automatic weapons.

Last Friday, Buckner told Associated Press Correspondent Al Dopping:

"I can't see this battle lasting more than a week longer."

Buckner was killed at the front Monday, watching the start of this final, victorious assault.

Eight hundred eighty-five Japanese surrendered the first three days of this week—probably a (Turn to Page Eleven)

Cities Too Large Says Jap Radio

By the Associated Press

The Japanese home affairs ministry has decided that Nippon built its cities too large and henceforth there shall be none on the islands with more than 3,000,000 population.

(Ed's note: This project has the earnest co-operation of U. S. superfortresses, which for some time have been laboring with might and main and fire bombs to get Tokyo's population down to more seemly proportions—also Osaka's, which likewise is over three millions.)

A Tokyo radio commentator said it was to be hoped that the program for reducing the population of cities would be accomplished in the "not-too-distant future."

(In view of what American air generals have promised the Japanese in the way of bigger and better air raids, the commentator said a mouthful.)

Unfortunately, said Radio Tokyo, most houses still will have to be made of wood when Japan gets around to rebuilding because wood happens to be the most plentiful material available.

(Superfortress bombardiers have no quarrel with wood. They say it makes far more adequate fires than reinforced concrete.)

BRADFORD ROTARY IS GIVEN DISTRICT AWARD

Chicago, June 21—(AP)—The Rotary Club of Bradford, Pa., will receive the Rotary International president's district award as the outstanding club among the 35 Rotary groups in Pennsylvania's district 175, Rotary headquarters announced today.

The citation, awarded for significant achievements in promoting the ideal of service during 1944-45, credits the club with contributing a substantial sum of money to the Rotary club of Bradford, England, for war service activities, and for taking the lead in organizing the UNRRA April drive for clothing for needy persons throughout the world.

The club also was cited for continuing its activities in behalf of crippled children, for organizing a cancer clinic at Bradford hospital and for helping in the work of the "B-Hive" youth center.

Nazi's Post-War Plans Are Revealed By Hun Documents

By TOM REEDY

Washington, June 21—(AP)—A senate committee said today it has obtained secret German documents showing how the Nazis intend to "hide" in strategic industries while planning "a third attempt at world conquest."

The announcement was made by Chairman Kilgore (D-W. Va.) of the War Mobilization Subcommittee of the senate military group.

Kilgore said his committee will open hearings next Monday "on the economic base for German aggression" and that additional facts will be brought out.

The announcement contained a report on a meeting of German industrialists at Strasbourg, Aug. 10, 1944, intended to make post-war plans.

This document, Kilgore said, "is evidence of how German industry worked hand in hand with the Nazi party to unloose against the world a war of aggression."

"Documentary material of this type shows that with the defeat of the German army and the discrediting of the Nazi party, the German cartellists are attempting to disassociate themselves from their co-conspirators."

Police last night literally went to the dogs. Canines gave the pers some work all evening. One big bird dog broke his least and the police had to round him up and take him to the station. And still another bothered the slumber of neighbors and the owner had to be admonished.

STAY HOME THE FOURTH

Planning on having yourself a time over the Fourth of July, with more gas, V-E Day and all? Don't do it, suggests the National Safety Council. Instead, stay close to home, take it easy, and help prevent an avalanche of holiday accidents that would delay the knock-out blow to the Japs. With an appeal to "put victory first on the Fourth," the Council is asking every citizen to enlist in a nationwide campaign to avert the usual large holiday toll that this year would waste manpower, material and time needed to speed final victory. One hundred and thirty other national organizations have joined the Council in the holiday safety campaign.

Monotony Is Hardest Thing In Life For Big Fort Crews

By ROBBIN COONS

A Marianas Base, June 21—(P)—Back home the headlines proclaim jubilantly: "Superforts Blast Jap Homeland" or "B-29s Scorch Tokyo."

True headlines, true stories—only out here it seems just part of the story. The Bomber Command sends 500 planes over Japan. That means about 5,500 men, 11 to a plane. Here you come to realize you can never know the whole story until you know what goes on in the hearts and minds of these aerial frontline fighters in those hours before, during and after the headlines are being made.

It's easy to get the idea that Superfort crews are supermen. They fly the biggest planes the longest distances, and Americans love superlatives. So it's a shock at first to meet these men. Many of them look as if they ought to be back home helping "Mom" with the chores or kicking up the dirt on a varsity football field. There are older ones: "Me? I'm an old man of 27," one pilot told me. He was only half-kidding. In the main the sky belongs to youth.

They expect and get no special privileges. Many still live in tents, moving into quonsetts as these become available. In the quonsetts they live dormitory-style, cots in rows against each wall, each man's belongings stowed or hung beside his cot in whatever home-made chests his ingenuity can devise or his talents for persuasion or bawling can procure.

Most of the quonset walls are plastered with pin-ups, including prominently the girl, the mother, the wife, sometimes the babies, back home.

It's a close, fraternity-house sort of life, each quonset more or less a closed corporation. Each crew a club even more closely knit by hazards shared, by pride in its particular plane, by mere living and flying together. Their b-l-sessions are like those of G.

It's everywhere, except that they're colored by flying talk. While G. It's now count "points" these air-men count "missions." After 30, 35 or more missions they can begin to expect home leave. "Home" is probably their favorite word. Many of them plant and tend gardens—flower and vegetable—around their huts.

Sometimes, after a mission, some of the cots are empty. "Maybe they made it to two," you hear, or "Maybe they'll be picked up." But you know each man there is wondering. The missing ones are the most vividly present in the hut.

But they don't hang wreaths on quonset doors. When a crew is "broken" it's not merely a matter of replacements. Understanding leaders send the survivors off for a little rest and recreation. The prospective replacements go along, too. In a different setting the newcomers seem less like intruders.

And then it's to do again. The war goes on. Tokyo... Kobe... Osaka... and what next? Another objective, every three or four days. Another 3,000-mile round trip through usually terrible weather. Seven or eight hours of flying, monotonous at best, hazardous always, with a job to do at the end and—if their luck holds—seven, eight hours back, perhaps in a crippled plane, with the ever-present dread of "ditching."

Most of the men say that monotony is the worst of it, even worse than the time over the target. There most of the crew are too busy with their respective jobs to think much. All know each trip that it could be the one, the one on which their luck ran out.

After the mission they pile out of the plane into waiting trucks. At the interrogation center they make their reports, get coffee or beer or a shot of whiskey if they want it. They're all dog-tired, but if all has gone well the very air around them dances with relief. Tension is easing, worries over friends in other planes are not yet gnawing.

You stand by the airstrips of a morning and watch the big planes take off, roaring down the runways at split-second intervals until the last is far off in the sky. It is a sky giant, but off there it looks like a thin silver feather in the sun, for all its size and power. The base settles down to work again—and wait.

And at night you see them in again—counting them off. And those nights you see something else, long after the story is written and the headlines are on the streets back home: From the airfield, a single bright finger of light pointing straight up. Hour after hour, long past the time when reason says there is no hope, that beacon shines, hoping, hoping, hoping—for that one plane, or two, for the men of the air, for the families back home that may have to be sent telegrams.

Without Painful Backache

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 5 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with stinging and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisons waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

THE PRESIDENCY

A strange thing could happen if congress carries on President Truman's suggestion about succession to the presidency.

We could start off a four-year term with a Democrat in the White House and, before the four years had passed, wind up with a Republican.

Here's the story.

We have no vice president now. When President Roosevelt died, Vice President Truman succeeded him. Both were elected by the people, but that left us without a vice president.

There is no provision in law or in the constitution to fill a vacant vice presidency by appointment or election.

But there is a law—passed in 1886—which says that when there is no vice president and the president dies, then the next in line to succeed to the presidency are cabinet members in this order:

The secretary of state, the secretary of the treasury, the secretary of war, the attorney general, and postmaster general, the secretary of navy and the secretary of the interior.

One of the main points to remember is that none of the cabinet officers is elected by the people. The president appoints them. If President Truman died tomorrow, Secretary of State Stettinius would succeed him.

Stettinius was appointed by President Roosevelt. Thus, although it probably never occurred to him, President Roosevelt was naming his successor if he died and the vice president died.

Mr. Truman, in a message to congress, has said he thinks that in a democracy it is not a good thing to any president to have the power to name a person to succeed him.

So he suggests congress pass a law which name the speaker of the house of representatives—the present speaker is Congressman Sam Rayburn, Texas Democrat—the successor to the president if the president dies and there is no vice president.

The speaker of the house is a member of the party holding the majority of seats. In this case the Democrats outnumber the Republicans. They chose Rayburn, a longtime congressman. The party with the majority always names the speaker. They elect him.

In congress the speaker of the house is a powerful man. He appoints committees, he can rule on points of order and therefore rule the opposition out of order, he can recognize or refuse to recognize any congressman seeking to speak.

The speaker is elected at the first session of each new congress.

But this could happen. The Democrats elected Mr. Truman last November and the Democratic majority in the house. Now suppose congress passes a law like the one suggested by Mr. Truman.

Then suppose that in the congressional elections of 1946—when Mr. Truman will still have two more years in the White House—there is a change in public feeling and Republicans win control of the house. Then they'll elect the speaker.

Then, if Mr. Truman died before the end of his term in 1948, a Republican would be president.

But, although Mr. Truman said "the speaker of the house is elected from his own (congressional) district," one of the parliamentarians later said the speaker of the house doesn't have to be a member of the house at all.

He explained:

There's nothing in the law requiring congress to choose a congressman for speaker. Therefore they could choose someone not in government at all.

SLOW TO LEARN

Along about January, 1943, a former champion Norwegian pole vaulter told an Oslo court, he realized the Germans' cruelty and the Quisling party's stupidity, and so he ceased being a Nazi. If he had known in 1940 what he knew in 1943, says Hoff, the pole vaulter, he wouldn't have collaborated with the enemy.

Hoff should have known in 1940. Hitler had been in power seven years. He had conducted pogroms and blood purges, and had swallowed Czechoslovakia and Poland. Hoff should have known, as should the rest of us. Most of us didn't. And it is largely because a few did know that Hitler and Hitlerism are gone today.

Hoff may be a coward and a death-bed repentant. But he also may have been just a little dumber than a lot of other people in the world.

Some of those who have tried train trips recently know now that the newspapers are right—there aren't any empty seats. And most of the coaches are really troop specials.

Trip From Tinian To Saipan One Marked By Rare Beauty

By ROBBIN COONS

Between Tinian and Saipan—(AP)—It's only about eight minutes by air travel between Tinian and Saipan in the Marianas. But to enjoy the trip, take time and go by ferryboat, in this case an infantry landing craft (LCI).

The shoreline of Tinian drifts by in review—a beautiful almost dainty shoreline in comparison with Saipan's rugged hills and crests. But you can still see the old caves in the low coral cliffs where deadly Japanese guns once blazed. Now all that blazes along those green shores is the flowering, flame of the coral-pink poinsettia trees.

It's odd, but you can see more from the ferry than you can from a plane: The blue sky full of fat, glossy clouds—and planes, all kinds of planes, streaking off, coming in; small boats fussbudgetting around in the water; ships lying at anchor, or coming and going on the endless big and little missions of war.

At the B-29 base's outdoor theatre on Tinian every bench is crowded. Jake Evans' "super bombers" are putting on their newest show, "Power Dive."

It's just that, too. Music hot and music sweet, and a skit or two, all G. I. in talent, humor and sentiment. The band, under 25-year-old Maestro Jacob A. Evans of Bowling Green and Glasgow, Ky., is one of the best outfits in the Marianas.

Evans and three other arrangers—Sgt. Lyle Smith of Hollywood, Calif., Sgt. Don Midgely of Salt Lake City, and Pfc. Bob Carter of Millville, N. J.—put the "super bomber" touch on most of the selections. Each show features a tune the G. I. by their own requests, want to hear most.

Some of the bandmen, who play also for church services, dances, funerals, and military ceremonies, are former professionals. Cpl. Chauncey Farrer of Los Angeles was a drummer with Stan Kenton, and Sgt. Gilbert Blakey of North Hollywood was a pianist for Milt Britton. Evans himself graduated in music at western Kentucky college, and took a master's degree in music at the University of Michigan.

A young chap named Bob Canny of Columbus, Ohio, on the drums gives ex-professional Cpl. Farrer a hot race for honors.

You are able to think at a speed of 153 miles per hour, the rate at which impulses travel over nerve fibers.

SAY BY UNCLE

DOROTHY BURGESS

Chapter 3

MADGE'S vocal cords relaxed enough for her to ask, "You—you—are dead—aren't you?" Uncle Louie was greatly amused as he chuckled, "Do I look it?"

Madge shook her head weakly. "No—but—shouldn't you be, after being in that closet for over forty years?"

Uncle Louie winced painfully. "Please—please, don't remind me of it."

Madge's hand began to tremble violently, nearly shaking the light from the candle. When she spoke her voice was barely audible.

"Don't—don't you think you'd better get back into the closet?" Uncle Louie's pale-blue eyes opened in surprise.

"But why?" he asked. "Because," gulped Madge, "you are the family skeleton—and—that's where you belong—isn't it?"

"Fiddlesticks!" he answered in thorough disgust. "That was the family's idea."

Uncle Louie's smile faded as he noticed the frightened expression that still remained on Madge's face. He knew what she was thinking, and if he didn't succeed pretty quickly in changing her conception of him and stop her from referring to him as the family skeleton, the power of thought would have him back in the closet before he knew it. He must win her confidence at once! Otherwise it would be too late. And heaven knows how many more years he would have to wait before someone else would let him out.

Uncle Louie, being a smart fellow, had already conceived a plan of action. The first and most important step was to prove himself a friend in need, by helping Madge solve her problems. Once he became invaluable to her, it would be a cinch to stay out of the closet. So, carefully, and with an abundance of charm and delicate tact, Uncle Louie slowly started his campaign rolling.

"My dear," he said quietly, "I can see that my presence bothers you considerably. But, if you will only trust me, have faith in me, believe in me, I can be of great service to you."

"To me?" asked the amazed Madge.

"Exactly," he answered. Uncle Louie knew that the question he was about to ask Madge would settle his fate, one way or another. His freedom or captivity would depend entirely upon her reaction. Well, here goes, he thought, assuming shyness as he hopefully inquired, "You—you do want John back, don't you?"

"How—how—did you know about John and myself?" she managed to ask.

Uncle Louie knew that one jarring word would ruin all his hopes.

He faltered with modesty, "I—I—don't want you to think I've been eavesdropping, but I couldn't help overhearing your little—"

Madge blushed to the roots of her hair.

"You heard?" she asked. "I thought Uncle Louie, I am getting the precise reaction I had hoped for. He wanted to shout with joy, but he succeeded in hiding his elation behind his assumed modesty."

"Please," said Uncle Louie reassuringly, "don't let it bother you. I only mentioned it to prove my point—that I can help you."

"You can?" she asked. "That question alone convinced Uncle Louie that his campaign had started auspiciously. He was a free man!

LIKE magic, Uncle Louie was no longer an illusory phenomenon to Madge. Suddenly he had become in her eyes a person of reality, and she found his whimsical charm irresistible. All her fears dissolved like bubbles. Such a thing as a skeleton or a closet no longer existed. To her, Uncle Louie was nothing more nor less than a darling, sweet, little old man, who wanted to help her. The tense expression on her face melted into a pleasing smile as she looked into his twinkling eyes.

"Why do you want to help me?" she asked quite simply.

"And why shouldn't I, my dear?" he said. "You are helping me by letting me finish my formula."

"Am I?" she asked, still slightly bewildered.

"Through you," he said proudly, "I shall startle the scientific world and revolutionize the entire universe!"

Madge's voice dropped to an amazed whisper. "You will?"

Uncle Louie straightened with pride as he announced quite boldly, "I shall prove myself a genius!"

"That's nice," she answered rather blandly. "But what has that to do with helping me?"

Uncle Louie was rather surprised at her question. "Why, everything, my dear. The triumphant success of my formula depends entirely on you, John, and the other woman."

"On us?" she asked in amazement. "How could we possibly help your formula?"

"By being its guinea-pigs." "Guinea-pigs!" cried the flabbergasted Madge.

"Figuratively speaking, my dear," he added quickly. "Will it—will it be dangerous?"

It was the first time Madge had seen the full size of his eyes.

"Glory be!" she cried. "Don't tell me you have just waked up out of your mass of sleepin' sickness!"

Sambo managed to stutter out, "Miss Madge—Miss Madge—done told me to tell you—that—"

He stopped dead.

Magnolia's patience came to an abrupt end as she shouted, "So help me, Sambo Abraham Washington, if you don't talk out and tell me what my honey-child says—then she picked up a frying pan, 'I won't leave enough of you to reckon with the good Lord!'"

Sambo backed up as Magnolia advanced menacingly, forcing him to sputter out, "Miss Madge say—she say—to tell you—that Uncle Louie—am gonna have bread fast with her."

A blank expression came over Magnolia's face as she stopped in her tracks and asked, "Uncle Louie?"

"Does—does—you—all—ah hopes know this old gentleman?" he asked.

"Sure I does!" she said decidedly. "He's one of them old relatives that's hangin' out in de hall."

Sambo shook his head sadly. "He ain't hangin' out dere—no more."

Magnolia became defiant. "If he ain't out dere—where is he?"

Sambo made a slow, long sweeping gesture. "He done go horseback ridin' with Miss Madge."

"What you-all tryin' to do—rile me?" she shouted.

"Rile or no rile—it am de truth," he said.

Magnolia's deep voice rang out with thorough disgust. "Who evah heard of a paintin' goin' ridin'—special Uncle Louie's?"

"Miss Madge done ask me," he labored slowly, "to help de old gentleman to git up on Mr. Juno and, while I was lookin' all around for de old gentleman, she says don't look no more, Sambo—cause he done make it, then—then they rides off together."

THE STATE POLICE SAY:

When coming from the open highway into built-up sections, it is necessary to immediately reduce speed, even though, by contrast, one seems to be merely "Crawling Along." Pedestrians, more cross streets, greater congestion and other factors in built-up sections require a shorter stopping distance. Always drive according to existing conditions.

Army Gives Up Hope That Pvt. Donald Anderson Is Alive

Mr. and Mrs. James Anderson, 29 Plum street, have been advised by Major General J. A. Ulio, adjutant general, that their son, Pvt. Donald E. Anderson, missing in action in Italy for more than a year, is now presumed by the War Department to be dead. Excerpts from his letter follow:

"Since your son, Private Donald E. Anderson, 2031292, Infantry, was reported missing in action 14 June 1944, the War Department has entertained the hope that he survived and that information would be revealed dispelling the uncertainty surrounding his absence. However, in many cases, the conditions of warfare deny us such information. The record concerning your son shows he was a member of a platoon which was forced to abandon a hill in the vicinity of Talamone, Italy, due to enemy tank fire. When the platoon had taken up its new position, a physical check of personnel revealed that your son was missing. Because the previous position occupied by the platoon was under constant fire, it was deemed impossible to return and search for him.

"Full consideration has recently been given to all available information bearing on the absence of your son, including all records, reports and circumstances. These have been carefully reviewed and considered. In view of the fact that twelve months have now expired without the receipt of evidence to support a continued presumption of survival, the War Department must terminate such absence by a presumptive finding of death and has set this date as 15 June 1945, the day following the expiration of twelve months' absence.

"I regret the necessity for this message but trust that the ending of a long period of uncertainty may give at least some small measure of consolation. I hope you may find sustaining comfort in the thought that the uncertainty with which war has surrounded the absence of your son has enhanced the honor of his service to his country and of his sacrifice.

Pvt. Anderson, known to his friends as "Andy", was born here September 22, 1922, and spent his entire lifetime in this community. Completing grade school, he entered Warren High School, only to quit and join with Co. I, 112th Infantry, leaving Warren in February, 1941, he went to Indiantown Gap and from there to Camp Livingston, La. There he was transferred to the 143rd Infantry and went overseas with that unit. He wore the Good Conduct Medal, the Combat Infantry Badge and two bronze stars on his campaign ribbons denoted participation in the North African and Sicilian invasions.

Besides his parents, he leaves the following brothers and sisters: Marie, Frances, Robert, Kenneth, George, and Elizabeth; also two grandmothers, Mrs. Hilda Anderson, 231 North Carver street, and Mrs. Jennie Miner, of Mayville, N. Y.

A memorial mass will be celebrated at Holy Redeemer church at eight o'clock Monday morning by Father M. E. Dailey and all friends of the young soldier are welcome.

According to word received here from Buffalo, N. Y., Charles Richard Losh, 18½ Franklin street, has been accepted for enlistment in the United States Navy and left Wednesday evening for Chicago, Ill., where, after two months boot training, he will attend radar technician's specialist school.

MEMORIAL SERVICE FOR PVT. ANDERSON

A memorial service has been arranged for Pvt. Ernest Anderson, nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Stranburg, Titus, who was killed in action April 29 in Czechoslovakia. The service will be held at 2:30 p. m. Sunday, June 24, in the Tiona Methodist church, conducted by the Rev. L. V. Mohr-kern.

Pfc. Nora E. Jones, of Alamogordo, N. M., is home to spend a 15-day furlough with her mother, Mrs. Thomas Jones, Fourth avenue.

Sgt. Sullivan Is Recipient of Bronze Star

Sgt. Paul W. Sullivan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Sullivan, 906 Pennsylvania avenue, west, has been awarded the Bronze Star Medal, it is learned by his family. With the 104th Division, known as the Timberwolves, he left Warren in December, 1942, and has been overseas about a year.

The 104th was in continuous combat duty, day and night, for six months, and among the first American troops into Berlin. In a letter received recently, he writes he expects to be in the USA soon.

The citation accompanying his decoration credits him as follows:

"For heroic achievement in connection with military operations in Germany on 11 April 1945. As the enemy launched a counter attack involving infantry troops and a tank, Sergeant Sullivan rallied his squad and poured devastating machine gun fire on the enemy. As the tank reached and passed his position, he tenaciously continued directing the fire from his guns, killing or wounding many enemy soldiers and forcing the rest to withdraw. The enemy tank, without the support of the infantrymen, was soon knocked out by a bazooka team. The gallant leadership and coolness in the face of grave danger displayed by Sergeant Sullivan exemplify the highest traditions of the American soldier and combat leader."

Civilian Point System

The time has come when too many civilians want to quit playing war, and the net effect is apt to gum things up no end. Before any civilian writes his own discharge papers from the home front army, he should add up his points. Not red ones, to see if he has enough to buy a pound of steak or a pat of butter, but white ones—the kind a soldier in the fighting army counts up to see if he is entitled to come home. For civilians, a white point system might be devised on this order:

For 10 per cent payroll deduction to buy war bonds, credit 10 points for each full year's participation. For extra bonds bought in any of the seven drives, add one point for each such purchase.

For each donation to the blood bank, two points.

For each star in the family service flag, add 10 points, and for each gold star an extra hundred.

For each month's service in a war plant or essential war industry, give yourself a point.

If you have religiously saved fats, waste paper, planted a victory garden, collected scrap, done volunteer work in OGD, nurses' aid, AWWSS, Red Cross or similar campaign activities, be generous and give yourself what you think you're worth.

So much for the positive side of this point system. Now see what your debts are:

For each day's absenteeism from your war job, subtract one point.

For each unnecessary train, bus or plane trip you took, subtract one point per hundred miles of travel.

For every gallon of gas burned in unessential driving, one point off.

For every purchase you made above established ceiling prices, one point off.

For every black market deal you made—well, how about it, Conscience? How much should be taken off?

For every war bond turned in, one point off.

For every fib or faked figure turned in above or on any government return or application for ration books, multiply the figure by two and subtract the product as points.

This is a highly unpopular bill of goods to sell, particularly in hot weather. Three and a half years of just trying to be good is more than most people can stand. But anyone who faces the truth should see that the hardest part of this war is still to come—not in the defeat of Japan, but in what comes after.

Even if Japan folds tomorrow, the problems of this future war call for greater exercise of good citizenship than did the home front effort in the shooting war. In many ways this country today seems a lot less prepared for this future, non-shooting war than it was prepared for Pearl Harbor. That's why it's no time to give up now.

Joint Recital At Conservatory Will Be Open to Public

At 8.30 this evening in the Warren Conservatory concert hall a joint piano and voice recital will be presented by Eleanor Swanson and Byron Swanson, an event to which the public is cordially invited. Adelaide Swanson and Lillian Larsen will assist as accompanists.

Eleanor Swanson is a graduate of the Conservatory, did post-graduate work there and studied with Karl McGuire, of Chicago Musical College, and Madame Margit Varro, former faculty member of the Budapest Royal Academy. More recently she has been an assistant of Mme. Varro and was organist at Memorial Methodist church in Chicago for three years. One of her earlier accomplishments was winning of first place in the Pennsylvania Federation of Music Clubs competition.

Byron Swanson, native of Warren and faculty member at the Conservatory, needed no introduction to the Warren public when he returned to head the institution's voice department. His work in choral and operatic groups, as tenor soloist and public school music instructor assures him an audience whenever the opportunity offers.

Their program follows:
Piano—Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring, Bach; Sonata in D Major, Scarlatti; Reflets dans l'eau, Prelude (pour le piano), Debussy. Voice—Caro mio Ben (My Dearest Love), Giordani; Nina (Tis Three Long Days), Pergolesi; Invocazione di Orfeo (Invocation of Orpheus), Peri; Alma Mia (My Alma), Handel; M'Appari Tutt Amor (Ah, So Pure, from Opera Martha), Von Flotow. Piano—Rhapsody in F Minor and Rhapsody in C Major, Dohnanyi. Voice—I Heard A Forest Playing, De Rose; When Children Pray, Penner; Clouds, Charles; Go Lovely Rose, Quilter; What's de Mattah, Sinnah? Strickland. Piano—Concerto in B Minor (1st movement) Reinecke.

Fine Speaker For Youth Gathering At First Baptist

A very unusual program has been arranged for the Youth for Christ service to be held in First Baptist church at 7.30 p. m. Friday, when the Rev. James Bedford, president of the London Bible Institute, will be the speaker and The Seminares, men's quintet from Chicago, will give several numbers in song.

Rev. Bedford was superintendent of the Ship Ahoy Christian Recreation Center for sailors at Geneva, N. Y., before going to his present position. He was a roommate of Rev. C. L. Wessman, of Calvary Baptist church, at Moody Bible Institute, and will be visiting the Wessman family while in town.

He will also speak at all services in Calvary Baptist church on Sunday, but The Seminares will make but this one appearance.

Fine Bible School At the Nazarene

Daily Vacation Bible School is now in progress at the Church of the Nazarene in Pennsylvania avenue, east, with a splendid attendance and with Mrs. Gordon V. Woods as superintendent. She is also in charge of the intermediate department, assisted by Mrs. Wayne Fitzgerald.

Paul Gray and Floyd Moore have charge of the vocational department for boys; Mrs. Preston Taylor and Mrs. Donald Thompson, the junior department; Mrs. Joe Lawson and Mrs. William Muir, with the assistance of Mrs. John Trauffer, primary department; Mrs. Ronald Rieder and Miss Iris Jean Peterson, beginners' department; Mrs. Margaret Nelson, arts department for intermediates. Miss Elizabeth Cowles, spending her vacation in Warren, has charge of the chorus singing, with Mrs. Edward Miller as pianist. Mrs. Paul Slagle, in charge of hand work which is to be done at home, is doing an excellent job with the girls.

The school affords a wonderful opportunity for boys and girls to participate in the fellowship and instruction offered by this fine corps of workers.

Closing exercises and the exhibits are planned for Thursday evening, June 28, at 7.30 o'clock and the public is cordially invited.

HAVE INFORMATION THE JAPS CAN USE!

Everyone of us has scraps of war information the Japs would like to hear! For instance, facts about any fighting man you know! His story tells the story of a whole division. His whereabouts locates his outfit. His movements trace their movements. His leaving signals the sailing of a ship or convoy.

Yes, little facts often betray big secrets! And we're now sitting on a dynamite-filled keg of such dangerous knowledge. Men returning from Europe may accidentally tell us too much. We, without thinking, may repeat what we hear.

Japs are listening for this careless talk! Their agents (who, you may be sure, don't look like Japs) pick up bits of information, piece them together, learn our plans. So think before you speak! American lives may be at stake!

Above all, don't talk about—troop movements, ship sailings, cargoes, new war weapons—any war story heard in confidence.

KEEP IT TO YOURSELF!

S-Sgt. Shreve Missing, Now Is Presumed To Be Dead

Mrs. Jennie Evans, 120 Pennsylvania avenue, west, has received from Capt. Placido D. LaValle, commanding the 305th Infantry Regiment, and Capt. N. B. Saucier, chaplain, additional confirmation and news of the death of her son, S/Sgt. Charles E. Shreve, who was killed in action in March.

In his letter, the commanding officer writes: "Knowing that no words of mine can ease your sorrows, I feel, nevertheless, an obligation to write to you, and express the sentiments of Charles' comrades and myself.

"Your son, Charles, while serving his country against the enemy, was killed on the Island of Zamami, Ryukyu Islands, on the 27th of March, 1945. He was killed during a night attack at which time we encountered heavy Japanese machine gun and sniper fire. He died instantly.

"It may be of small comfort to you to know that during the following day, we killed or captured the entire enemy force on this island. Our losses were small in number, but we can never replace, nor forget our friends and comrades who died there.

"You have the deepest sympathy of the officers and men of this organization in your bereavement. Charles was held in high regard by all members of his command. He was an outstanding soldier and his courage and devotion to duty during the campaign on Guam and on Leyte won for him the respect and admiration of all with whom he served. We promise you that his sacrifice and yours will not be in vain. The thought that Charles served his country well may lighten your sorrows. This is the sincere wish of all of us who served with him. Charles received a military funeral and was buried on Zamami Shima, Ryukyu Islands, on the 28th of March, 1945. The services were held by a Protestant chaplain. In closing, I wish to express my own personal sympathy in your loss. Yours most sincerely, (Signed) Placido D. LaValle."

Similarly expressing his deep sympathy, Chaplain Saucier says: "Charles was a small fellow and a good soldier. He attended our religious services and gave evidence that he loved and trusted the Lord. Let us hope that he is at rest in the paradise of Heaven free from wars and troubles. . . . S/Sgt. Shreve died nobly in that he gave his life for the greatest ideals on earth, justice and freedom. We, his comrades, will see that his death was not in vain."

S/Sgt. Charles E. Shreve, better known as "Gene", was born at Clarendon August 18, 1912. He attended schools at Tionesta and Warren. He entered the service on March 20, 1942. His last letter home was dated March 23.

He is survived by his wife, Doris, and children, Dona, James and Wendy Lee; his mother, Mrs. Vernon Evans, Warren; his father, James Shreve, Glenwood, N. Y.; and a sister, Mrs. Raymond Coddington, and two nephews, Richard and William Coddington, Warren. Another sister, Erma Shreve, preceded him in death in 1940.

He is sending home the medal and his family has already received the accompanying citation, which reads:

"For heroic service in connection with military operations against the enemy in Germany on 28 February 1945. On three successive patrols in heavily mined and enemy-occupied territory. Sergeant Rupczyk volunteered to serve as a first scout and expertly led his men past hostile positions and returned safely with valuable information. During the following assault, he fearlessly exposed himself to danger to direct the advancing forces through the mine fields and on the most vulnerable enemy positions. Sergeant Rupczyk's aggressive determination and intense application to duty are worthy of great praise."

INSURE CANNING SUCCESS!

Secretary of State Stettinius announced yesterday that the charter would be signed Monday. A special room, with a huge round table, blue-covered against a background of United Nations flags, has been prepared for that ceremony.

The president will arrive Monday in time for the signing and will remain through the closing session about 24 hours later. When he leaves to fly back to Washington by way of his hometown, Independence, Mo., he will take the charter with him to submit to the senate with a plea for speedy ratification.

Among sections of the charter which won committee approval yesterday and last night was a chapter setting up a system of international trusteeships for government of internationally-held territories and also setting forth standards for colonial powers in the government of all dependent peoples.

The charter does not specifically mention independence but it promises the development of self-government and free political institutions.

Retailers' Picnic Big Success With Plenty of Fun For Crowd

Good weather, good entertainment, good food and good fellowship added up to just one answer on Wednesday when local merchants and their employees gathered at Oakview Park for their annual outing—a good time for all concerned.

Even those detailed to the duties of planning and carrying out the many arrangements involved in such a successful affair were in a happy mood and joined with the others in having fun.

Entertainment was varied, including canoeing, workouts on the horseshoe court, ball games, music and, the highlight, a baked ham dinner served to approximately 160 persons.

In the girls' softball game between teams of the National Forge and Struthers-Wells, the former took the regularly scheduled league match by a score of 10 to 8 and through its manager, Catherine Vicander, accepted the $10 cash prize awarded by the retailers to the winner.

Nazi's Post-War Plans Are Revealed By Hun Documents

The committee apparently obtained some of its information on a recent trip to Europe, although it has conducted a continuing inquiry into the broad economy of Germany.

The document of the secret meeting quoted a Dr. Scheid, SS Obergrouppenfuhrer of the Hermandorff and Schonburg Company, as saying that at that moment, "German industry must realize that the war can not be won and that it must take steps in preparation for a postwar commercial campaign."

"Each industrialist must make contracts and alliances with foreign firms, but this must be done individually and without attracting suspicion."

At another meeting, Kilgore said, the Nazis told the industrialists that the war was lost and "they must prepare themselves to finance the Nazi party which would be forced to go underground."

From that point on, the document went on, the Nazi government would allocate large sums to industrialists so that each could establish a secure postwar foundation in foreign countries.

It was suggested further that the big firms set up small research units not connected with their factories, adding:

"These bureaus will receive plans and drawings of new weapons as well as documents which they need to continue their research and which must not be allowed to fall into the hands of the enemy."

Forgers Trim Corry Outfit,
4-2; Meet DuBois All-Stars
Prior to Wagner Appearance

The National Forgers continued to strengthen their record last night with a distinct 4-2 victory over Vern Group's Corry Merchants. Not only did the team record grow stronger but also the pitching and hitting averages took a long step forward.

Craig Bennett, recent dischargee from the army, took the measure of his first all-game opponents at Loveland Field to allow the Merchants only four hits, sending eleven batters down via the strike-out way.

In preparing for the eagerly awaited Honus Wagner All-Star encounter next Sunday at Wilder Field, the batting continued to soar along with the type of ball playing displayed by the Irvine throughout the game, the NFOs included in the account a home run, one triple, three doubles, and four singles.

The winners collected an early lead as three crossed the plate in the opening half of the first. Dick Geigerich and Nick Croelia each scored when Emmory Morrison hit the first home run of the year for the Forge to send home three runs. The locals scored their fourth

Braves Drub Giants, 15-10,
Race For Top Honors; Bums
Win Twice as the Buccos Lose

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Manager Bob Coleman loaned today as Boston's miracle man No. 2.

The rapid rise of the Braves to a commanding position in the National League pennant race had baseball followers thinking back 39 years when the Braves under George Stallings, the original miracle man, clinched a great stretch drive to win their first and only pennant, after being in last place in mid-season.

Since that 1914 season, the Braves have been in the first division only five times, but today, after a 15-10 drubbing of the New York Giants last night for their 12th victory in the last 16 games, they were only two games away from second place and only one behind the fifth place Giants.

Paced by Tommy Holmes, the baseman Joe Mauer, who had led the league's leading hitter, and First Baseman Joe Mauer, Boston out-slugged the Giants in a game in which six pitchers gave up 32 hits, 16 for each side. Holmes, with three hits, increased his batting mark to .385 and extended his consecutive hitting streak to 17 straight games. Mauer batted in six runs with a homer, double and single and scored four times.

A pair of homers by Danny Gardella and one by Johnny Rucker failed to help the Giants, who dropped their 19th game in the last 24, and fell into the second division for the first time this season.

Those unflinching Brooklyn Dodgers cracked out a double win over the Philadelphia Phillies, 4-2 and 8-1, to pull three games in front of the second place Pittsburgh Pirates. Art Herring won his first game of the year in the opener, while Curt Davis registered his sixth triumph in the nightcap.

Lefty Hal Newhouse, Detroit's 29-game winner last year, won his game today, blanking the Cleveland Indians 5-0 for his third shutout. Newhouse helped rack up his fifth successive victory by batting in three runs with a double and single. The win increased the Tigers' American League lead to two and one-half

EAST HICKORY

East Hickory, June 18—Frank Howe who recently arrived from a prison camp in Germany is enjoying home life with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Howe, and family and friends. His experiences have been interesting, and he does not have a feeling of love for the Nazis. He has been in service since Dec. 3, 1942, and sailed from Camp Miles Standish, near Boston Sept. 29, 1944, arriving at Liverpool, England, but was soon transferred and saw action in Belgium, later, in the Battle of the Bulge after two days, he was captured, and after marching four days toward Bonn, Germany, was put into a cattle car with about ninety men, who were crowded there for seven days, with little ventilation or food. It was winter weather, but the Germans took them out and they were being partly frozen while riding.

They were taken toward Hammelburg, where they were unloaded and imprisoned in an old stone barn with about enough food to keep them living. Later they were taken to farm labor, but food more plentiful, and living conditions more bearable. After being liberated they were marched 27 days with hot soup once a day, averaging from ten to twenty miles per day. The Americans were told to come for them, after being liberated, and some new from Rigensberg, to LeHarve, France by plane, thence by boat homeland. He was a prisoner four and one half months, and in that time lost weight from 175 pounds to 135, with just tea in the mornings, soup at noon, and one loaf of bread for eight men, with water for supper. Question are the Americans too humane with our German prisoners?

Mrs. Frank O'Neil has been slightly wounded and has arrived in the States, on his way home. He writes from the U. S. Naval Hospital at San Francisco, that he is being sent to Fort Ussell, Lees Hall, Va. From there he will come home. Pvt. O'Neil entered the service, July 19, 1944, and has been on the Okinawa Island since April 1st. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. O'Neil of Utica, Pa. Mr. and Mrs. Morris Heffernan and family, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. O'Neil and son Dale, were Sunday dinner guests of Mrs. Eleanor O'Neil.

New Use Found For Paper Protecting Radio and Radar

When American troops storm the Japanese home islands in the final war drives before victory, their radio and radar sets will be protected in the difficult landing operations by a new waterproof bag, made from paper salvaged on the home front, according to W. T. Corbett, chairman of the Salvage Committee of the Warren County Council of Defense.

A revolutionary feature of the new waterproof protective containers, now in large scale production for future campaigns, is a transparent window in the front which makes it possible for a soldier to operate the machine when the bag is closed and sealed. In amphibious operations at Okinawa and Iwo Jima, these wartime paper products helped to get delicate communications equipment ashore through the pounding surf and continuous barrages from enemy guns.

These paper bags are tough and uninkable even in rough seas. They will support the radio in case it is dumped in the surf, and can even be used for life-preservers in an emergency.

Engineers at a signal corps laboratory in New Jersey were given the job of developing these new containers. They had to create a package that would stand up under the broiling sun and 98-degree humidity in Burma and India, yet that would survive the Arctic cold of a plane flight in the stratosphere.

They went to work under laboratory conditions simulating the tropical climate. A glaring arc light gave the effect of the burning Pacific sun. Spray guns poured down torrential rains. Tanks were provided to submerge packages to see if they were waterproof. Other rooms imitated the torrid temperatures and the damp humidity of the tropics as well as the frigid cold of high-altitude plane flights.

They were told, too, to "tropicalize" containers—make them resistant to the green fungus growth that appears on ordinary paper in the South Pacific within a matter of hours, growing faster than a man's beard. Another job was to develop a weather-resistant finish to the containers, to combat the 35-inches of rain and falls in the China-Burma-India theatre in the space of three months. Within 30 days, the experts had all the answers.

This is only one of the thousands of strategic uses of waste paper developed by the army. For example, army officials estimate it takes 100 pounds of water-resistant and grease-proof paper alone to get one G.I. overseas. Much of this can be made wholly from re-processed waste paper.

58 Million V-boxes a month go overseas to protect food and equipment in fighting zones where warehouses are unheard of. These boxes, partially made from old newspapers, have to be able to stand in the rain for months without rotting—and keep out insects that can bore through asphalt.

Other new paper uses in the South Pacific include—five-ply bags to protect perishable foods—grease-proof paper to wrap guns, plane parts, and signal instruments—corrugated paper for wrapping shells and mortar ammunition—and a two-way stretch crepe paper to line food ration cartons.

The saying in the Army is "that from the first blue prints and plans to the signing of the final armistice, this is a paper war."

Kiwanians To Have Picnic On July 11th

The regular meeting of the Kiwanis Club was held yesterday noon at the Carver Hotel. In making plans for the commemoration of All-Kiwanis Week, Rev. Wayne Furman, pastor of the First Methodist church, read a message from Kiwanis International president, Ben Dean, in which he stressed the importance of Kiwanis fully supporting the war effort for the duration, and their participation in the San Francisco Conference, exerting influence and opinions in the interests of lasting peace.

Also in the message, the president lamented the fact that for the third year Kiwanis was unable to hold its annual convention. However, hope was expressed they might hold a victory convention in 1946.

It was decided to hold the annual picnic on July 11, probably at the Blomquist camp in North Warren. Members sang "Happy Birthday" to Orrie Loper.

There were three out-of-town guests, Kiwanian W. S. Hoskins, Ft. Pierce, Fla.; Milton Laughlin, Buffalo; and J. Lee A. McCracken, Venango county.

Pew Scoffs At United States Oil Shortage

Washington, June 21—(P)—J. Edgar Pew, chairman of the American Petroleum Institute's committee on petroleum reserves, yesterday scoffed at predictions that the United States faces an oil famine.

The vice president of the Sun Oil Company, Philadelphia, told a special senate committee investigating petroleum resources that this country has sufficient oil reserves to meet its requirements for "generations to come" if there are adequate incentives for exploration and development.

Secretary of the Interior Ickes asserted recently that known oil reserves of the United States may be exhausted within 14 years at the present rate of consumption. Pew declared that for many years predictions have been made, many by government agencies, that supplies would become exhausted. These have proved erroneous, Pew declared.

Pew recited that from 1940 through 1944 the United States supplied 7,320,000,000 barrels of oil to meet unprecedented war demands and ended 1944 with 20,453,231,000 barrels of proved oil reserves—the largest in the nation's history.

"The truth is that we have hardly scratched the surface of the land underlain by sedimentary rocks and which geology indicates oil is possible," he added.

Texas, California, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Kansas produced 84 per cent of last year's oil supply, he informed the committee, and have 87.4 per cent of the estimated proved reserves. But 20 years hence other states now far down the production list may be at the top.

"Some of the larger areas in which thick sediments are found, yet which are virtually unexplored, include the trans-Mississippi region of southeastern United States—Florida, Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi; the trans-Pecos region of west Texas and New Mexico; the Anadarko basin of western Oklahoma and adjacent parts of Texas, Colorado and Kansas; the plains region of the Dakotas, Nebraska and parts of Montana and Wyoming; and the northern two-thirds of the San Joaquin Valley in California," he testified.

Behind Your Bonds
Lies the Might of America

BUILDERS OF PLANES

Throughout history of aviation, Hartford and other Connecticut communities have provided essential flying equipment. Its Navy "Corsairs" have brought down thousands of Jap and Nazi planes while its engines and propellers have flown the Army's "Thunderbolts" to victory in the war. The great factories turning out carburetors, bombights, control apparatus and electrical instruments will thrive after the war, filling the demands of commercial aviation. They fatten the nation's purse which backs up the War Bonds we buy.
